- Leasys, a leading player in multi-brand operational leasing, was honoured with the "Wellbeing Award" at the prestigious Business Car Awards 2023.
- Leasys is committed to raising awareness regarding mental health and promoting wellbeing in the company.

Leasys, the joint venture between Stellantis and Crédit Agricole Consumer Finance and a leading player in multi-brand operational leasing, was honoured with the Wellbeing Award at the prestigious Business Car Awards 2023 gala, held last night in London.

The Business Car Awards, organised by the leading fleet magazine Business Car, have recognised excellence in the automotive fleet sector for over 20 years and are now clearly established as an important event in the fleet manager's calendar. Through qualified benchmarks, an independent judging panel sets out the best cars that fleets should be running, highlighting innovation and fleet expertise amongst suppliers, as well as rewarding excellence amongst fleet operators. The Wellbeing category has been introduced in 2023 to recognise the importance of work carried out to improve the physical and mental wellbeing for staff within the fleet sector.

Matthew Boswell, Managing Director Leasys UK, commented: “We're incredibly proud to win this prestigious award. Business Car is an important publication in our industry and to be recognised by them alongside some very worthy competition is a tremendous honour and testament to how serious Leasys takes the health & wellbeing of its employees. We have put in place several strategies to promote wellbeing and we provide services and facilities to assist, all confidential. By raising awareness, we are increasing responses.”

The award received by Leasys UK is a confirmation of Leasys continuous commitment to support and raise awareness regarding mental health. Among the services offered by the company, there is a Mental Health Ambassador, who regularly checks in with the team to relay information on the services available to them, Mental Health First Aiders who are fully trained and available for employees to talk to and an Employee Assistance Programme (EAP), a telephone service where a specialised team is available for employees to deal with their personal problems.
